that Fletcher grabbed it on the run and swung the ball into Mensor's back. The play was as utilitarian as comely, for Wil-son was hit and the ball on which Fletcher son was hit and the ball on which Fletcher threw out Wagner came too hot for him to have handled it had he been playing in, which he would have been doing if Mensor had reached third base.

What with gilt edged pitching and strong incisive defensive play the outs came quickly, there being a momentary break in the fifth, when Herzog made an infield, bit. He bit the dust stealing. Carey, first man up for Pittsburg in the sixth heavene a passenger on four balls. Carey, first man up for Pittsburg in the sixth, became a passenger on four balls, but was detrained when Wilson grounded Into a double play. Doyle opened the seventh with a single, but he soon ceased to be a base runner. Becker forced him and a double play cut short the careers of Becker and Merkle. This double play was different. Merkle sent a hard bounding ball to Miller, who took it while standing on the bag. Becker it while standing on the bag. Becker therefore was not forced, but with Miller holding the ball there was nothing for him to do but keep on to second, where he was tagged out when Miller threw to Wagner. In Pittsburg's seventh Viox gave and the Pittsburg's seventh Viox gave and In Pittsburg's seventh Viox gave another difficult chance to Fletcher, who accepted with the same long sure throw as before. Two were dead birds in the eighth when Tesreau wavered briefly and passed Mensor. Up the line sprinted Mensor on the first ball pitched, and Meyers's throw to Doyle killed him.

Fletcher whacked a grounder through the box to centre in the ninth. Shafer didn't resort to his usual waiting game, Robinson's control was too good for that.

Hobinson's control was too good for that. He hit away and sent a grounder chugging toward right. Miller reached and knocked the ball down, but couldn't make a play with it. Snodgrass sacrificed, hitting to the pitcher, who would have had Fletcher at third if the latter hadn't been under many with the pitch.

at third if the latter hadn't been under way with the pitch.
Doyle, batting Colossus of the Giants, didn't waste a minute. The Giants now were hitting at the first good one that came along and Doyle laced one over short. The hit brought in Fletcher. Shafer was bundling full tilt for the plate and would have been thrown out a block if Robinson, the portly coach, hadn't stopped him. Crandall drove a grounder to Viox. The ball bounded off Viox's front clevation and Shafer came. grounder to Viox. The ball bounded off Viox's front elevation and Shafer came home with a pell mell slide which wiped up yards of soil. Merkle and Murray also took a tochold and met the ball squarely, but straight to fielders.

Herzog took Carey's foul in the last half of the ninth. Mathewson fanned

Wilson and Fletcher tossed out Wagner. The score:

ECHOES OF GIANT RALLY.

Tesrcau has pitched more than one first class game on this trip. He did excellent work against the Cubs, although losing.

The Pirates have been prone to make trivial kicks in this series. Why Gibson growled when called out at first in the fifth inning passes comprehension unless he thought fi wasn't clubby for a pitcher to cover first.

Snodgrass bunted to the foul line in the sixth and was thrown out. The hit would have rolled foul and given him another chance, but Gibson foxily stuck his mitt down and blocked the ball in fair territory.

Pittsburg has protested the first game of yesterday on the ground that a thrown ball went into the New York bench, and according to rule a Pittsburg base runner should have been allowed to come home on it. Umbire Owens, it is understood, says the ball did not go into the bench, and the question resolves itself into one of the umpire's judgment, np; interpretation of rule, which is the only ground for a protest. The geographical relationship of the man who made the throw, the place he was throwing to and the aforesaid bench is such that it is difficult to see how the ball could have gone to the beach.

ST. Louis, July 20 .- The Cardinals won the third game of the series from Brooklyn to-day, score 2 to 1. This third vio stunt is the same trick that was the locals gaining nine battles out of the last twelve played on the home grounds strangest part about all these vic-is the fact that the visiting clubs captured the opening battle of each of the three series. Steele triumphed over Yingling to-day.

but the big spitball artist was lucky to get away with the verdict. The Brooklyn southpaw pitched a remarkably good game of ball all the way, and the pair of runs scored against him were not deserved. On the other hand, Brooklyn's lone tally was earned on two hits and an infield ut, sending over a runner in the fourth

J. Smith, the first batter, but after that steele had all sorts of trouble. Daubert singled to left. Cutshaw flied to Magee singled to the same of the sam bag easily. Erwin replaced Fisher as atter. Hummel stole second. Erwin man who was cast aside by the Browns played better ball than any of the presfull length upon the ground. He came right back with another scream of a capture when he took a hit away from koney in the sixth, while in the eighth he repeated the trick against Lee Magee. He sides all this Northen made three of the eight hits collected off Bill Steele.

Schulte and Zimmerman Both Do It. but Phillies Win Anyway.

CHICAGO, July 20 .- The Phillies toyed Tesreau has pitched more than one first class game on this trip. He did excellent work against the Cubs although losing.

Considerable of a crimp has been put in the Giants stealing record on the present family aunt. Archer and Gibson did much deadly throwing.

The Checks of the Cubs to-day, defeating them 14 to 2. Not until the eighth did the Cubs get a hit off Alexander. In the ninth Schulte hit one over the right field fence and Zimmerman over the left for the only Cub runs. Twelve hits and eight bases on balls made the victory an easy one for Dooin's men. Cone of the largest trotting cards ever put on in the New York section was in action at the third interborough matinee of the New York-Parkway Driving Club on the Brooklyn one-half mile track yesterday. Sixty-three entries formed the list and there were few scratches in the ten races. The New Yorkers made a fair average in the point competition for the championship cups, winning four events.

The meeting, which has been given annually for many years by the New York Driving Club and the Parkway Driving Club and the Parkway Driving Club and last workouts may be seen by the "rail birds" daily. Among the stables which have arrived at the track is Frank Kennedy's, with June Frost, a black mare by Alcamedia Hal, who took a record of 2:01 last season, and Midnight Hal, 2:38-4, by Henry McLease. BIG HARNESS PURSES UP. Over $8,000 Offered for Pacers and Trotters at Parkway.

As plans progress for the big purse meeting at the Parkway Driving Club track, at Gravesend, July 20 and 31 and August 1 and 2, the assurance grows that the meeting this season will surpass all previous ones. With the exception of a meeting in Staten Island, the Parkway event will be the only one in the vicinity which offers purses for fast trotters and process. for fast trotters and pacers. S. M. Klotz, racing secretary, makes the statement that at no other time have entries filled so largely as they have this year, and a perusal of the list shows that some of the fastest and best known horses in the East

Once, but Twice-Mason Doescher Both in Form.

BALTIMORE, July 20 .- Jersey City put a Baltimone, July 20.—Jersey City put a crimp in Baltimore's pennant aspirations to-day by taking both games of a double header. Doe Mason proved too much for his former teammates and the Birds were dipped into the kalsomine. In the second game Shawky passed two men. This was followed by two hits which, together with an error by Parent, gave the Pests three runs, which were enough to win the game, as the Birds could do nothing with Doescher's slants. lenback upset expectations by the irrestible way he whizzed ahead from the start of the next trial, leaving Mercier and Cox to finish in that order over three-quarters of a lap behind.

Cox made more of a fight with Hollenback for the final heat, rushing to the fore from the beginning. Then Hollenback crept up even and alternated in the lead with Cox, with the latter ahead at the beginning of the final circuit, when he seemed to have victory in his grasp. But Hollenback made a final raily on the last half lap and whizzed home the winner by a yard.

The idline irrel to clock yesterday and all vere tired out.

Butler and Chase went ashore yesterday morning and talked with the regatta committee, and up to last night no one knew which yacht had won. The yachts-men were too tired to sail in yesterday's regatta, but will be ready to-morrow. The prize for the 118 mile race from Newport was offered by Fleet Capt. J. D. Probst. It is probable that each owner will receive a prize.

The riding of Johnny Albright of Denver was a feature of the night, as he vanquished Billy Wray in two straight heats of a four mile match race, besides reeling off an exhibition three miles in the fast time of 2 minutes, 13 seconds. In the first heat Albright let Wray take the lead at the beginning in order to see how fast he was. He soon passed him and made the pace until the end of the race, which he took by three-quarters of a length. The second brush was easier for Albright. He again allowed Wray to take charge.

Stiff Battle With Winds Too Mas

The small sloops Momo, owhed by W. E. Butler, and Idler, owned by A. Malcolm Chase, which sailed a race from Newport to Larchmont, arrived early yesterday morning. They left Newport at midnight on Thursday and were expected to reach the finish some time on Friday. As there was a spanking northwest wind all day yachtsmen figured on an early finish.

Eddie Hollenback showed that something speedy besides the Athletics can come out of Philadelphia by wresting the five mile professional race from Johnny for the small sloops, and those on board had a very rough time. The wind and as leaf had passed Point Judith it had freshened considerably. It grew so strong that they had to shorten sall. All day they battled with the wind and seas, but pluckily held on. When the sun set they were a long way from the finish. It had been agreed that should take his own time when off the red light on the breakwater. Somehow this light was not picked up casily.

at the next, but he was not allowed to make anything like a runaway match of it. Watson hung on tenaciously and neld down his man to a one hole margin at the end of the fifteenth. Three halved holes left Stearns a winner.

Connolly had to go to the nineteenth to take the measure of F. A. Martin of Ekwanok. The latter was 1 up at the turn, but Connolly squared the match at the eleventh, only to become 1 down again at the short thirteenth. Martin increased his advantage at the fifteenth, but threw away his opportunity at the next, which was the Rockland county player's. Connolly then squared the match on the home green when Martin required an extra put. The Ekwanok man's fine drive at the extra hole found the sand trap at the left of the green and he required two shots before he could get out. A par 4 gave Connolly the match.
